SANTA ROSA HONORS BURBANK —CALIFORNIA BUILDING FOR STATE NORMAL

To-day Santa Rosa is doing homage to Luther Burbank, plant wizard, whose 68th birthday falls upon this date. Programs in all the public schools is a feature of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Burbank have accepted the invitation of City Superintendent of Schools T. F. Brownscombe to visit all the schools and listen to the programs.

For weeks past, teachers, under the supervision of Mrs. Minnie Mills, supervisor of music in the schools, have been giving attention to the programs which will be presented to-day. In addition to the invitation given the noted plant wizard and his wife, invitations have been given to the parents and friends of the children.

Interest centers around the Burbank school, named in honor of Mr. Burbank.

The Burbank Oakland dahlia, propagated by Luther Burbank, will be planted to-day in one of the city parks. An invitation has been tendered Mr. Burbank to come to this city to-day—his birthday. State, city and county officials will take part in the celebration of the planting, and school children will turn out en masse.

In addition to the planting of the Oakland dahlia—the largest white dahlia ever produced—a bulb of the official flower will be sent to each of the 27 Oaklands in the United States for planting in one of its city parks.

Many workers for the project of conserving the California building as a state normal school, will attend the public legislative hearing to-night at Sacramento.

Those who attend the hearing to-night, in favor of the plan, will strongly urge the state aid necessary to visualize the plan. Quick action is necessary, according to Frank S. Brittan, attorney for the Panama-Pacific Exposition company, who speaking of the project said that the lease for which the Exposition company has paid $1000 a month for the past four years has expired. The lease covered the lands on the site of the California building, which have been appraised by a jury at $185,000. This money must be paid by March 20. Therefore Attorney Brittan expects that the bill will pass—unless strong opposition develops from some unexpected quarters—by March 13, 14 or 15. It can then be signed by the governor in time to permit the payment of the money to the Herman and Norstrom holdings by March 20.

The tennis tournament between the east and the west will open in Los Angeles to-day. The tournament includes four single matches and three double matches. The tournament will end on March 10.

Last year the eastern tennis team captured every match with the exception of one. The western squad is much stronger this year, however, and it is expected that they will make a much better showing.

Interest centers around the match between Molla Bjurstedt, woman tennis champion, and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former champion.

BENEFIT FEDERATION OF P.-T. A.

Don't fail to hear the following program, which will be presented at the high school for the benefit of the Glendale Federation of P.-T. A. Friday evening, March 9, and Saturday afternoon. March 10. Tickets may be had for the evening performance for the small sum of 10 cents. Matinee tickets for adults, 10 cents; children, 5 cents. Each one of the Glendale schools will contribute a part of the program, and the nine numbers, as given below, promise an ideal vaudeville entertainment:

1. Music—High School Orchestra.
2. Sun-bonnet Babies—Doran St. School.
3. Reading—At the Window—Shirley Chase, Broadway School.
4. The Young Gymnasts—Pacific Ave. School.
5. Sunflower Chorus — Central Ave. School.
6. Wizard of Oz—Columbus Ave. School.
7. Girls' Glee Club—Third St. School.
8. Farce—"Trials of Pauline"—High School.
8. Spanish Dance—Lois Naudain, Colorado St. School.

LECTURE ON FAR EAST

Cameron Johnson will lecture on "The Key to the Far East," Thursday evening, March 8, at the Presbyterian church. An error was made in yesterday's issue, stating the lecture would be given Wednesday evening. This should have read Thursday evening.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair to-night and Thursday. Westerly winds.

SALVATION FREE GIFT

NO MAN CAN MAKE HIMSELF WORTHY OF HEAVEN, SAYS EVANGELIST

"No more than the leopard can change his spots, can any man make himself worthy of heaven," according to Evangelist Celian Andross, who spoke at Evangel Hall, 115 South San Fernando Road, last night on "How to Get Rid of that Sin." "Salvation is the gift of God," he said. "We cannot earn it. We must accept it as a free gift. Though from now to the end of our lives we lived in perfect harmony with the Divine will, that could not atone for past wrongs. We are told, too, that 'for every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.' If for idle words, how much more for every other act of our lives, and how impossible to do anything by which to earn eternal life.

"Paul says in Romans 1:16 that the gospel of Christ 'is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.' It is not salvation in our sins, nor through some feeble effort on our part. It is not saving sinner and saint alike, and taking all to heaven in spite of their sins. No, it is salvation from sin, right here and now. If the gospel of Jesus Christ does not present a way of overcoming sin in this life, then there is no hope for us.

"Not willing to admit that he is not able to save himself, man goes struggling on and on. It can end in nothing but defeat. But, friends, the power of God is offered you and me to enable us to live a righteous life. It is ours for the asking. It is our privilege to accept it. God promises to write his law in our hearts if we are willing. When the Spirit of God is the source of action in our lives, we shall live in harmony with God's law, not merely a part of it, but all of it. We cannot fathom the mysteries of godliness. We do not know how it is done. But we know that when God speaks, he does it. The Christian life is a continual warfare against sin, and a victorious warfare while the individual trusts in the power of God and surrenders all to Him."

Dr. H. F. Rand of the Glendale Sanitarium will answer health questions to-night.

FIVE HUNDRED PARTY

Twelve of the friends of Mrs. Charles L. Evans of 323 Orange street were her guests Tuesday at an afternoon of cards, 500 being played. Peach blossoms formed the attractive decorations of the prettily appointed luncheon table and at the card tables St. Patrick tally cards were used. A very delightful afternoon was enjoyed by the following ladies: Mrs. Albert Pearce, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. A. W. Tower, Mrs. Laurence Ellis, Mrs. C. H. Temple, Mrs. H. R. Boyer, Mrs. J. K. Wheeler, Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. C. W. McFadden, Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger and Mrs. Walter Stamps. Mrs. Warren Roberts won the prize for 500 and Mrs. Walter Stamps the consolation prize.

OFFERS USE OF LOT

Clark C. Johnson, 338 N. Jackson St. has a vacant lot on Maryland avenue north of Doran, which he will be glad to let some one have the use of providing they will keep the weeds off the lot. Any one wishing to take advantage of this generous offer should phone Glendale 1055 after 6 p. m. or Main 9053 during office hours.

People are coming forward nobly in response to the announcement of the new enterprise launched by the Garden Society and the coming spring will see many of Glendale's unsightly vacant lots and back yards planted to vegetables.

WILL DEBATE CIVIC QUESTION

"Resolved, that Glendale Needs a Civic Center," is the question for debate Thursday afternoon at the Pacific avenue school at 2:30. Mrs. Minnette Sherman will lead the affirmative and Mrs. F. C. Herron will handle the negative. These parliamentary classes are very largely attended and greatly enjoyed. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings.

MISSIONARY MEETING

To-night at half past seven at the Presbyterian church, the regular monthly missionary meeting will be held. The address is to be given by Mrs. T. B. Aldrich, field secretary of the Home Board. She has a message every one will be interested to hear.

MAKE CLOTURE RULE

MEASURE LIMITS TIME OF DEBATE ON ANY BILL BY EACH SENATOR TO ONE HOUR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Rules Committee of the Senate have agreed upon a cloture rule whereby Senate debate on any bill is limited to one hour by each senator by a two-thirds vote. This will come up to-morrow. It is believed its passage will be followed by a call for an extra session of Congress and the re-introduction of the Armed Neutrality bill.

JAPANESE MURDERS COUNTRYMAN

T. TOMANAGO, KITCHEN EMPLOYE IN CROCKER HOSPITAL, SHOOTS COOK.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Enraged because T. Gorg, Japanese cook in the Crocker street hospital, kicked him for not hurrying, T. Tomanago, a Japanese kitchen helper, rushed from the room and returned with a revolver with which he shot Gorg in the spine. Gorg died an hour later and Tomanago was arrested when he sought to escape.

BORDER COMMANDERS TO RECOMMEND SIXTY MEN OF EACH REGIMENT ELIGIBLE FOR OFFICERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Border commanders have been ordered to suggest the names of sixty men in each regiment eligible for commissioned officers, for training camp work. The training of these recruits is merely a preparedness move.

WILSON MAY ARM MERCHANT VESSELS

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INSTRUCTIONS TO SECRETARY DANIELS TO PROCEED EXPECTED IMMEDIATELY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Formal announcement that the president has instructed Secretary Daniels to arm American merchantmen is expected within a few hours. It has been authoritatively learned that Wilson has been told he can do this.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

BERLIN REPORTS DESTRUCTION OF FIFTEEN AEROPLANES OF THE ENEMY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, March 7.—Fifteen of the enemy's aeroplanes were downed in the West yesterday. One German aeroplane was lost. Engagements have been reported on both sides of the Ancre, on the Sómme, east of the Meuse and in the Champaign region. Firing is livelier in the eastern sector. Weather is preventing infantry movements. The Russian armored cruiser Rurick was sunk in the Bay of Finland.

WILL FIGHT STONE'S RE-ELECTION

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS BITTERLY OPPOSE RE-ELECTION OF SENATE FOREIGN COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Democratic Senators will bitterly fight the re-election of Senator Stone as chairman of the Senate Foreign Committee, in spite of the seniority rule. The leaders say they have not definitely planned the fight as yet.

CLEVELAND, March 7.—Local papers have begun a fight to oust Senator Stone as head of the Foreign committee. This campaign is undertaken in the interest of preparedness.

FACTS AND FIGURES

THINGS THAT EVERY CITIZEN OF GLENDALE SHOULD KNOW

There are many important facts concerning the Glendale community that it is in place for every citizen to know, and it is difficult to get them from an authoritative source. Here are a few facts and figures gleaned from a page of the new city directory that are worth preserving:

Population of Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo, March 1, 1917

	Males	Females	Total
Glendale	4051	4588	8639
Tropico	998	1144	2142
Casa Verdugo and W. Glendale	388	413	801
	5437	6145	11,582

The above figures were not estimated but were obtained by actual count. Official U. S. Government census, 1910, 2742. Official City census, 1915, 7556.

Bonded Indebtedness of Glendale

The total bonded indebtedness is $373,625.00 and $248,000.00 of this is in Water Bonds, which begin to draw interest September 1st, 1920, and which will be not a burden but rather an asset to the taxpayer.

Building, 1916

Permits were issued during the twelve months ending December 31, 1916, for buildings and additions to the amount of $236,287.00.

Streets and Area of Glendale

There are about 60 miles of streets and the approximate area of the city is about 10 square miles.

Assessed Valuation, 1916

The assessed valuation for 1916 was $4,954,630.00. Plus Veteran's Exemption, $95,485.00, making a total of $5,050,115.00.

Tax Rate, 1916

The Tax Rate for 1916 was $1.15 and $1.14 for the portion lately annexed, and was apportioned as follows:

General Fund	$1.00	$1.00
Library	.10	.10
Fire Bonds	.02½	.01½
C. H. & L.	.01	.01
Ad. and Pro.	.01½	.01½
	$1.15	$1.14

Water and Light

The rate for domestic water is $1.00 for the first 1000 cubic feet or less and $0.03 per 100 cubic feet or less in excess of that amount.

The rate for electricity is seven cents for the first 20 kilowatts, five cents for the next 14 kilowatts and three cents for all thereafer, with a minimum charge of fifty cents.

There are 262 5-light Ornamental Standards and 131 one-light Ornamental Standards, and these are placed on the following streets, viz.: Brand boulevard, Broadway, Glendale avenue, Canada boulevard and Orange and Kenwood streets.

ORGANIZE FELLOWSHIP CLUB

A group of girls of the Presbyterian church, chaperoned by Mrs. John Horsch, met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mae McIver for the purpose of organizing a club in the church. It was voted to call the new organization the Fellowship club, the object of which will be to stimulate among the young women of the church a desire for true Christian knowledge, to support the Sunday school in all possible ways, and to unite its membership in practical Christian sympathy and service. The officers of the club are Miss Helen B. Wallace, president; Miss Sara Walker, vice-president; Miss Mary Arbuthnot, secretary and treasurer. Miss McIver, with the assistance of her mother, served a delicious supper to the girls. After the supper and business meeting the evening was spent in music and other forms of amusement.

SAY THERE, ALL YOU SUCKERS!

Just listen to the call for all who ever lived in Illinois to meet under the auspices of the Illinois Society of Los Angeles for an all-day picnic reunion in Eastlake Park, Los Angeles, Saturday, March 10th, 1917. If rainy that date it will be held Saturday the 17th, same place. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have the county registers so you can find your old home neighbors even if there are ten thousand present.

There will be a brief program with music and greetings from Illinois speakers, but the main object will be to have a good time.

Yes, we want to see all the tourists and visitors from the old home state who are in California. Bring your lunch baskets well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the new badges.

MASONIC RECEPTION

UNITY LODGE HOST TO GRAND LECTURER BAKER AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

Last night was the Masons night out. The temple on Brand boulevard was the shrine to which the great throng journeyed. Grand lecturer Baker of San Francisco was the honored guest of Unity Lodge, No. 368, on this occasion.

Brother Baker knows Masonry and knows how to instruct the other fellow, and more than all he knows men. Everyone present enjoyed his visit immensely. A large number of guests were present from our neighboring cities of Eagle Rock, Alhambra and Los Angeles as well as representatives from a score of eastern states. The evening's program closed in the banquet room by a selection on the fork and plate by that famous little quartet, "Sunset," "Crease," "Mack," and "Pete."

First degree March 13. Masons welcome.

YOUNGEST RIFLEMAN

Little Ford Palmer, 2 years and 5 months old, son of W. E. Palmer, who is promoting the Glendale Rifle and Revolver club is the youngest rifleman in the world and has won distinction as a rifleman and horseback rider. Ford was entered in the 1915 Los Angeles rodeo at the age of eighteen months and attracted much attention in his riding garb including an expensive pair of angora chaps. He is the proud owner of a riding horse, saddle and bridle and a 22-rifle which he shoots from the back of his mount. Ford's picture and a write-up were recently published in "Arms and the Man" the official organ of the National Rifle association. published in Washington. The little fellow inherits his prowess as a marksman from both sides of the house, his mother being very proficient along this line. A three months old sister is expected to follow in Ford's footsteps.

FREE GARDENING ADVICE

This evening Miss Helen White, agricultural teacher in the Glendale grammar schools, will be ready to give advice and instruction to all persons desiring information on the making of home gardens. Time, 7:30 to 8:30. Place, 1111 W. Broadway (courtesy Glendale-Montrose Railway Co.)

Have you spaded up your back yard yet? Or even a bit of it? Do it now. Every moment is precious. You can keep up a rotation of vegetables for your own table all the year round. But spade up the ground right away, to prevent it from becoming baked, and to conserve the moisture. Carrots and beans are the easiest grown and yield the largest returns. You can sow them now. Also you can put in tomatoe plants. Early Ana is the best for present planting. Between carrots, beans and tomatoes you can help largely towards reducing your living expenses. And the exercise and out door work will be fine for your health. It does not take an expert gardener to grow these simple vegetables. Come tonight and receive pointers which will help you to do things right.

MARCH PLANTING CHART

A limited number of planting charts for the month of March, showing how, when and where to plant 31 different kinds of vegetables, may be obtained free every evening this week at the Glendale Garden Society's free home gardening classes, held 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. at 1111 W. Broadway. This is your opportunity. Will you avail yourself of it? The garden Society is the only organization we know of in any community which has offered to teach the public free of charge how to decrease the family expenses by making efficient use of the back yard. An expert teacher every evening, and all advice and instruction free.

EARLY TOMATOES

Plant early tomatoes now if you have a sunny position. Transplant from hotbed sown early in January or before, or buy plants from nursery or seed house. Any good rich soil which will grow potatoes or other garden vegetables is all right for tomatoes. For tomatoes grown in back yards it is best to tie up to stakes and cut out some of the suckers. Best early varieties are Early Ana, Aggeler and Musser First Early, Rivers Brothers Perfect Early. Ask your local nurserymen for these varieties.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 1917

GET READY FOR THE C. E. CONVENTION

Glendale will be visited the latter part of next week by from 3000 to 5000 strangers who will spend from Friday evening to Sunday evening mingling among our citizens. These men and women who will spend the two days with us will come from all parts of Los Angeles County to represent local Christian Endeavor societies at this large annual district meeting.

May it be the desire of every property owner in Glendale and every resident of this beautiful city to have things look at their very best. Clean the vacant lots, remove old piles of lumber and tin cans, square up house numbers, keep auto mufflers closed and, last but not least, wear a smile that won't come off for at least two days. May the citizens of Glendale so conduct themselves that these strangers will go away saying Glendale is just the best place in which we have ever attended a C. E. Convention.

EXCUSE FOR EXPERIMENTALIZATION

Many advocates of legislative experiments make the plea that the only valid argument against their scheme is that it may not do any good.

Their answer is that if there seems to be any chance that it will do any good there is nothing to prevent it from being given a trial.

So they get up laws for marketing produce and doing things to protect the seller and the buyer, and interference with the markets.

In California a state market master to establish public markets has organized fifteen pools of producers to improve their marketing.

This has raised a howl among the consumers who cannot see how they are benefited by raising the already high cost of living.

But this will not stop the law experimenter from trying a new thing just because of its novelty and at the expense of the public.

WEST INTERESTED IN CONSERVATION

"Shall the West, with its intimate knowledge of the needs of its great industries in their progress toward a more steady development for the vast resources of the Pacific Coast state, be heard in the determination of the Nation's policy of conservation and control of the public domain? asks the San Francisco Chonicle.

Or shall a small coterie of theorists living for the most part on the Atlantic seaboard, between Boston and New York, continue to retard development by dictating the conservation policy for the whole United States?

These are the questions—the issue that is demanding a sane and progressive solution.

The phenomenal recent development of the mining industry in the West that has come with the increased price of metals and the wider market for petroleum, is bringing this issue to the attention of the Nation.

Timbermen, oil men, mining men, and hydro-electric enterprises are demanding a solution of the conservation problems in which the West shall have a proper hearing.

The relation of the public domain, the Government lands held in reserve as well as the unreserved and unpatented lands, to the immediate industrial and commercial development of the Nation, is a relation so important that its solution is destined to determine the character and progress of that development.

The hydro-electric development must contend with restrictions that hinder the use of a power which is running to waste, and which no use can destroy as long as the sun shines.

Congress should pass remedial legislation for these industries without more delay.

GRASS RUG INDUSTRY THREATENED BY JAPS

The Japanese are the least original and the most imitative people in the world . They initiate nothing—absorb everything, says the March issue of Price's Carpet and Rug News.

This mental phenomenon is a problem for the psychologists to solve—if it interests them.

It interests us not at all, except as effects are derived from causes. We are concerned in the effect this peculiarity of the Japanese brain has upon American enterprise, American energy and the American genius for "starting something" in the industrial field.

This country is at present overrun with Japanese spies who have no commission to make surveys of our military defenses. They are not in the military service, and we do not know that they have any official status whatever. It is not only possible but quite probable that they represent private interests.

They are commercial agents who devote more of their time to a study of American goods than they do to a study of American markets, although the latter "duty" is not neglected. They combine the filching of designs with the less recondite work of invading American markets. It is not a complicated work to invade American markets if the American manufacturer can be undersold, and there is an industry 100 per cent. American which can be and will be destroyed by the Japanese unless a higher tariff protects it from assault, and that is the grass rug industry. It would be out of business now, but for the European war.

The Underwood impost of less than 3 per cent. ad valorem may be regarded as negligible so far as any protection it affords to Americans is concerned. And as we have said the industry is 100 per cent. American.

The grass is grown here, the designs are originated here and the finished product is manufactured here by American labor which is confined to no particular zone.

The grass growers of the Northwest, the cotton planters of the South (all grass rugs contain cotton warp), the skilled artisan who works in American factories, the investor in these factories, the distributor, all are alike adversely affected. And finally, as soon as this unwise minimum tariff has accomplished its perfect work, the consumer himself will lose.

The grass rug has been called "the poor man's rug" because, even when adequately protected, it is within the reach of all, but its use is not confined to a certain class. The masses are perhaps more concerned than people in easy circumstances, but as a matter of fact American genius has originated so many beautiful and popular patterns and designs that the commodity may be said to be in universal use. It is especially popular for bungalows, and the bungalow has become an adjunct of American life. Some there are who live in bungalows the year round, and thousands during the heated term.

There are now four grass rug factories in this country, and if the industry is properly encouraged there will be many more. If the industry is not properly encouraged after the war those now active may have to shut down.

The menace comes from the Orient.

As we have said the country swarms with Japanese commercial agents who purchase rugs and send them back to the Insular Empire, where the designs are copied and where the product is duplicated by labor that receives less than a fourth the remuneration paid to American operatives.

And some of these rugs are sent back here and sold by unscrupulous retailers as the genuine American article.

In many instances the same agents who obtain the designs later visit the trade as salesmen. It is reported that some of them have even carried genuine American rugs as samples to the trade, so certain are they that they can be duplicated abroad. Already, in spite of abnormal conditions due to war, they are offering to undersell American concerns.

If the grass rug industry in this country is destroyed for lack of adequate protection it will mean the loss of millions of dollars to farmers in the Northwest, cotton planters in the South, manufacturers and labor.

And, as we have said, in the end the consumer will pay the price, for it is almost an axiom of trade that as soon as a particular country or group unrestrained by local laws have a clear field they set a price which amounts to the ability of the customers—as a class or a community—to pay.

The harmonious and beautiful designs in use to-day are all of American origin. If properly encouraged other advances in an artistic way will be made. If not encouraged efforts in that direction will cease. Americans have gone to great expense to obtain these patterns and they only ask the government to prevent the spoliation of their business by foreigners who have no interest in America except such interest as may be aroused by an opportunity to exploit the people.

AMERICAN TRADE SPREADS

American genius is triumphant. A United States firm has arranged to light the office of the president of China with indirect electric light.

Australia has sent for sixty expert American workers to teach the men in kangaroo land how to make glass.

The first motor truck ever seen in northern Honduras was recently sent there by an American firm.

A Boston manufacturer was induced to go to Canada to instruct our northern neighbors how to make toys.

THE SILENT MOON

Dead silence reigns on the moon. A thousand cannons might be fired and a thousand drums beaten upon that airless world, but no sound could come from them. Lips might quiver and tongues essay to speak, but no action of theirs could break the utter silence of the lunar scene.

YANKEE CURIOSITY

The Yankee is proverbially inquisitive, and Charles H. Sherrill recalls in "French Memoirs of Eighteenth Century America" some amused comments reported by the Marquis de Chastellux, which show that the reputation was well deserved more than a century ago.

"He says," declares Chastellux, repeating a traveler's tale, "that the Americans are the most inquisitive people he has ever seen. Their curiosity is pushed almost to impropriety. When he asked his way they only answered, 'You apparently come from Philadelphia.' When almost famished he asked for food. Instead of serving him they said, 'You seem to be in a great hurry. Is there anything new in the north?'

He also relates that Mr. Franklin who possessed a sense of humor in addition to that habitual calm which so surprised the Europeans, whenever he was traveling in Connecticut, a section noted for its curiosity, was accustomed on entering an inn to call all the family together and announce in a loud tone: "I am Benjamin Franklin. I was born in Boston, and I am a printer by trade. I am coming from Philadelphia and am going back there at such and such a time. I do not know anything new, and now, my friends will you tell me what you can give me for supper?'

A forty acre vineyard, one-half mile south of Reedley, Cal., a Santa Fe fruit center, was sold recently by the owner, Anton Neilsen for $22,000, or $500 an acre. Opportunities for building up such ranches in California are numerous.

MEXICANS REFUSE U. S. CURRENCY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

DOUGLAS, Arizona, March 7.—Mining men say that Sonora Mexicans refuse to take American currency fearing that war with Germany will cause it to depreciate. Mexicans in Agua Prieta also refuse American currency and demand coin.

DO IT NOW

The buying public expects business men to talk to them through the local paper. Have you not something to sell and something to say to the public? Don't whisper down a well; but advertise and get busy. The people like to read what you have to say to them. Do it now. The merchants have it in their power, by advertising, to draw new business to any town.

T. J. Morgan started the erection of a 6-room bungalow on S. Jackson street between First and Second street Monday of this week.

Mrs. Nanno Woods attended a meeting of the Lorquin Natural History club in the lecture room of the Los Angeles public library Tuesday evening.

The Literary Reading circle will meet at the Colorado boulevard school Thursday, when the members will begin the reading of the "Merchant of Venice."

Mrs. C. E. Harlan and Mrs. Mattison Jones represented Glendale at the reciprocity day meeting of the South Pasadena Woman's Improvement association to-day.

Miss Emma Orth, who has been spending the winter as the guest of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Orth of 435 South Central avenue, left last week for her home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. J. M. Border, Mr. and Mrs. Wash. Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown were among the Glendalians who attended the Iowa picnic at Eastlake park Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Patrick, son and daughter, late of Canada, are newcomers to Glendale and are residing at 315 S. Central. Mr. Patrick, Jr., is the manager of the ice skating rink in Los Angeles.

Mrs. M. P. Harrison will entertain at dinner to-night, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mrs. Clyde Brooks and Mrs. F. J. Adams in honor of Mrs. T. B. Aldrich, who speaks at the Presbyterian church this evening.

Dr. Laura J. Brown, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. M. P. Harrison, 245 S. Kenwood, for some months, goes to Whittier to-day for a few days' pleasant reunion with college friends at a house party at the country home of Mrs. Sam Mendenhall.

The Pythian Sisters Thimble club had an enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. Alma Minter, 1434 Fifth street, Tuesday. The ladies took their sewing and a social afternoon was spent, the hostess serving dainty refreshments about 4 o'clock. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, March 20, at the home of Mrs. Be-Yea.

Glen Eyrie Chapter, O. E. S., will entertain the Grand Matron and Grand Patron of the Order of Eastern Star in Masonic Temple to-night. The regular meeting of the chapter will be held on Thursday evening. All Eastern Star members in the valley are invited to attend the reception to the grand officers this evening.

Joe Hawkins and family of La Crescenta will move to Glendale this week, having rented a house on Myrtle street near Central avenue. Mr. Hawkins has rented his place at La Crescenta to Judge Thornton of New York for a year. As his two sons and daughter, Walter, Norman and Gertrude Hawkins, are students in the Glendale high school, the change will prove a very convenient one for the family.

The members of the West Glendale W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Christiansen on Cherry street, Tuesday afternoon. After the business meeting an appetizing luncheon was served by the hostess and a pleasant social afternoon enjoyed. The next meeting of the union will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellen M. Cook, 1608 West Fifth street, next Tuesday, when new officers for the year will be elected.

Mrs. Willis M. Kimball of 1303 Maple avenue entertained the Auction Bridge and Luncheon club at Hamburger's in Los Angeles Monday, with a luncheon, after which bridge was enjoyed. Mrs. Kimball's guests included Mrs. Herbert Paine, Mrs. Claude Pulliam, Mrs. A. Beach, Mrs. V. Price Brown, Mrs. Hewes of Los Angeles, Mrs. Frank McKenney of Venice, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mrs. R. J. Hinchcliff, Mrs. Robert Kimball and Mrs. C. H. Woolsey.

The Shakespeare Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Evans, 113 Orange street, Monday afternoon, when the members finished reading "The Tempest." About twenty-two ladies were present and a very pleasant and profitable afternoon was spent. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted in pouring tea by Mrs. Chas. Temple. At the next meeting of the section the reading of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be begun. The next meeting, which will be on Monday, March 19, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Evans, will be an open meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Doughty of Des Moines, Iowa, were guests at the H. E. Bartlett home, 101 Brand boulevard, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett took their guests on an auto tour of the San Fernando valley, visiting the mission and other places of interest. The valley is especially beautiful at this season of the year, the fruit blossoms being out, and nature is clothed in her freshest and prettiest spring dress. Poppies and wild flowers are in bloom and every day many tourists and residents are out enjoying the beauty of the country. This is Mr. and Mrs. Doughty's first visit to California and they are delighted with it.

Mrs. J. W. Wright of Long Beach was the week-end guest of Wm. A. Burns and family of Piedmont Park.

D. Nuckolls and family have just moved from 574 Orange Grove avenue to 203 S. Glendale evenue, Tropico.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Brenneman and daughter of Fort Collins, Colo., who are spending the winter in Los Angeles, are the guests to-day of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 101 Brand boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett took their guests for a drive through the valley.

About fifty-eight members of the J. O. C. and Young Business Men's classes gathered in the social hall of the First M. E. church Tuesday evening for a picnic supper. The J. O. C.'s held a business meeting following the supper when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Claude Case, president; Mrs. Will Knox, vice-president; Mrs. Chas. Starkey second vice-president; Mrs. Harkness, recording secretary; Mrs. Ray Sherman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sawyer, treasurer. The rest of the evening was spent in a general good social time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Franklin, the parents of Mr. Blake Franklin, of 1498 West Third street and Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker arrived in Glendale Sunday from Lawton, Oklahoma, to make this their permanent home. They have purchased the Wilson property at 200 Central avenue and their daughters, Mrs. Ocker and Miss Veta Franklin, will reside with them. Miss Franklin is attending the University of Southern California and has been living at Long Beach with an old chum, but has visited her brother and sister in Glendale frequently and so counts a number of Glendale people among her friends. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have spent about three months here the past two summers and decided that the one thing necessary to make them happy was to live in Glendale, Mrs. Franklin expressing the belief that if one could not be happy here there was not much hope for them to be happy anywhere. The many friends of the Franklin family here and the community in general will be glad to know that these worthy people are to become permanent residents.

THE HOMELIKE CHURCH

Sunday last was a day rich in good things. The Sunday school attendance was not up to the figure looked for, but we should work hard to reach the goal next Sunday.

The morning preaching service was a rare treat. Heart-reaching songs and the sacred communion service so dear to every true disciple put all in a worshipful mood, ready for the sermon that followed, on "The Imperative Need for World Missions." The speaker declared that never again will such an opportunity for world evangelism be ours. All the great foreign fields are ripe and eager for the harvest. The people are hungering for the gospel. Its teachings, if faithfully practiced, will solve every vexed question. Wars would end, labor troubles cease crimes no longer shock the world, if Christ's teachings were lived up to. Test this saying for yourself and see if the golden rule of living would not wipe out all crime and oppression. In the evening two subjects in the great series now being given were combined. "The Plea" and "Our Mission as a People" were the topics considered. We as a people are misunderstood, often, and our attitude reviled, but gradually the white light of truth is making all things clear. We stand against a divided church and for a union of God's people. Our weekly communion service is not ours but Christ's, to which every follower of the Master is invited. It is his right to partake with us if he so wishes. We do not say "Come to us" but "Come to Christ." We are weak and faulty many of us and we crave your love and counsel. When all believers in Christ unite on a common scriptural name and take the Bible alone as their rule of faith and practice, discarding all man-made creeds then will they conquer the world and the prayer of Christ that "Ye all may be one as the father and I are one" will be answered. Then shall the world know that we are His disciples because we all love one another. The minister's plea was rich in love and pleading. The members of other congregations are as dear to him as those of his own, for are they, too, not children of the Kingdom?

Next Sunday evening the men of the church are to have charge of the service, furnishing the music and one or two short addresses. Bro. Cole will preach on the subject, "Our Polity—Church Government." All men of the city not otherwise engaged in church work are urged to attend the evening's service. If not acquainted with our men, become so and join our great men's class if you are not already in some Sunday School.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock Miss Jessie Brown, a returned missionary from Mexico, will speak before the Missionary society of the church. The ladies urge your attendance.

SHAKE

The following poem was read by R. D. Goss at a recent meeting of N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., and made such a hit with the veterans that they have requested its publication. The author is J. W. Lozier of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, late chaplain of the 37th Ind., and chaplain of the First National encampment of the G. A. R. It was recited by the author at the Louisville National encampment in 1896.

Yes, I'm a "Yankee" veteran as sure as you're alive!
Went in just after Sumter, and out in sixty-five;
Got caught in several battles, and saw more fight than fun,
Was awful 'fraid of bullets, but more afraid to run.
Was down here in the sixties, when many Northern braves
A welcome met with bloody hands to hospitable graves;
But while these conflicts, gory sad memories awake,
Let's rally 'round "Old Glory," and have a friendly shake!

We meet not as in war time, in battle's fierce array;
Although the sight of comrades gives thought a tilt that way;
But say! you chaps who tackled us in sixty-one and two
And made it sultry for us while we mopped the earth with you.
Think you we Yankees hate you because you wore the grey?
Little we care for what you were, so you're all right to-day.
But if you say with Gordon, "we made a grave mistake,"
We Boys in Blue sing out to you, "Johnnie, come up and shake!"

Yes, some of us are crippled, but I, for one, can say
I wasn't wounded hunting "the thickest of the fray."
For when we fought you, "Johnnies," I tell you candidly,
The thinnest spot I ever struck was thick enough for me.
'Twixt here and Appomattox lie many a Waterloo,
And many a Thermopylae these Southern lands bestrew.
For 'twas no craven, alien band, whose lives we fought to break,
And neither grasps a coward's hand, when "Yank" and "Johnny" shake!

We shook back in the sixties, for, be the truth confessed,
Our fingers pressed the trigger, and our knees did all the rest.
But here our honors brighten, each faced a hero band,
Where Titan fought with Titan, Titans alone could stand.
Within the ranks of valor, what chieftains led the van:
Grant, Lee and Bragg and Sherman, Jackson and Sheridan!
While each receives our homage for dauntless valor's sake,
The "rank and file" gather the while, 'neath the old flag to shake.

But while your zeal and valor command the North's applause,
Let's turn its fiery current toward a better cause.
Let us sustain America against all rival powers,
And stand four-square against the world for that old flag of ours.
Let elbow touch to elbow and rank keep pace with rank,
And let there be no "boycott" in Dixie 'gainst the "Yank."
And thus as peers adown the years we'll march without a break.
And greet "Old Glory" with our cheers, and shake and shake and shake.

BACK YARD GARDENING NOTES

Compost Hole

A compost hole is a place where anything may be thrown which will decay and make fertilizer. It may be merely a large hole in the ground, or a hole lined with boards or cement. It should be in the rear of the yard, and the contents kept moist but not allowed to sour. Lime will sweeten it and assist the decaying process. Place chicken manure, rabbit manure, etc., with the compost. Weeds, grass and vegetable tops are well placed in the compost hole. —Rural World.

H. L. Dalbey, formerly of San Bernardino, has contracted for 150 acres of tomatoes at Whittier at $10 a ton. He recently purchased the Whittier cannery buildings and will establish a modern cannery, opening early in June. Ten acres of string beans have been contracted for by the new cannery. The tomato pack will begin in August and in November the pickling of olives will be taken up and a large amount of this fruit will be handled. Next year Mr. Dalbey expects to double the capacity of his plant.

OUR OWN LITTLE TOWN

If you meet a man who is down in the mouth, who thinks that his town is all wrong; just take him aside or give him a ride and hand him this quaint little song: "There are fancier towns than our little town, there are towns that are bigger than this; and the people who live in the tinier towns all the city excitement will miss. There are things that you can't see in the town that is small; and yet up and down there is no other town like our little town after all. It may be that the street through the heart of the town isn't long, isn't wide, isn't straight; but the neighbors you know in our little town with a welcome your coming will wait. In the glittering streets and pavement and thrall, in the midst of the throng you'll frequently long for our own little town after all. If you live and work and trade in our town in spite of the fact that it's small, you'll find that the town—our little town—is the best kind of town after all.—Ex.

"Yes; I am in charge at present."

"Ah wants to know if you all has a job aroun' heah wifout a niggah tied to it—ca'se if you all has de job, I's de niggah."

Now, if you all have a job of printing without a printer tied to it—we are the printers.

PIKE'S PEAK AND THE GARDEN OF THE GODS

One of the most interesting localities in the United States to the tourist as well as to the prospector and to the geologist is the region embracing Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods. The great scenic beauty of this region, which has made it the yearly Mecca of thousands of tourists, depends not only on its lakes and streams and on the forests that clothe the lower flanks of the mountains, but on the steep, rocky canyons and on the great mountain masses of bare rock that form so prominent a feature of the landscape. At the foot of Pike's Peak, which towers 14,109 feet above sea level and 8,000 feet above the plains to the east, lies the Garden of the Gods, the charm of which is due largely to the picturesque pinnacles of red sandstone, carved by nature into many fantastic shapes, that rise abruptly from the surface of the plain,

Because of the dominant part that geologic agencies have taken in shaping the scenery of this famous playground a complete and authoritative account of the geology is of especial interest. Such an account has just been published by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, as the Colorado Springs Folio (Folio 203), by George I. Finlay. This folio, which is the latest addition to the great Geologic Atlas of the United States that the Survey is making, contains topographic and geologic maps of the region; presents descriptions of the rock formations, the mineral deposits, and the water resources, and gives the geologic history of the area in relation to that of the surrounding region. In addition to the maps of the Colorado Springs quadrangle, published on a scale of half an inch to the mile, the folio contains a large scale map (1½ inches to the mile) of the Manitou quadrangle, which includes Pike's Peak, the Garden of the Gods, and the city of Colorado Springs. The folio is illustrated by many photographs of the natural wonders of the region and includes a particularly fine panorama of Pike's Peak and the adjoining mountains of the Front Range.

The rock formations of this region comprise a great thickness of sedimentary or stratified rocks, which rest upon the ancient granite that forms the backbone of the Front Range. The history and the age of this granite have not yet been clearly made out, but it is certain that early in geologic time this region became covered by the sea and that successive layers of sand and mud were laid down upon the granite floor. At some periods the shore line was so distant from this region and the water here was so clear that limestone was deposited on the sea bottom, and it is this limestone, since acted upon and in part dissolved by circulating ground water, that contains the famous Cave of the Winds, near Manitou. During much of geologic time the region was below sea level, though there were periods of uplift in which it became dry land and was subjected to erosion. Early in Tertiary time a series of uplifts began which continued at intervals for a long period and which raised the Rocky Mountain region above the plains. By these earth movements the strata along the foot of the mountains were tilted to a vertical position and finally dislocated or faulted, so that enormous blocks were moved many thousands of feet from their original position. To this faulting is due the abruptness with which the mountains rise above the plains. The curious pinnacles near the gateway to the Garden of the Gods are simply the upturned and eroded edges of resistant strata that were dragged into a vertical position by these disturbances. The geologic diversity of the region is increased by the fact that during Tertiary time a volcano existed a short distance west of Pike's Peak, and that during the Ice Age the summit of the Peak itself was covered by glaciers.

The folio also describes briefly some of the semiprecious stones which are offered for sale to tourists and for which the Pike's Peak region has long been famous among mineral collectors. The report concludes with a description of the coal deposits of the quadrangle, the cement and building-stone materials, the soils, and the water resources.

"QUIT GROWLING AND PUSH"

They were boys in the street, and their task it was hard,
Unwieldy and heavy the cart.
There was laughing and joking and calling of "pard,"
When, suddenly, one dropped his part.
He complained of the load, and the way the others worked,
And then—as there fell a small hush,
They looked at the boy who his duty had shirked,
Saying: "Aw, quit your growling, and push."

"There's a lesson for me," said a bystander then;
"How often I've thought with a scowl,
When the loads of this life I've been pulling with men,
I'm going to quit pushing and growl.
Henceforth, I'll try daily, complainings to hush.
Ne'er again shall I put up a howl,
Whether things go my way or get mixed up like mush
I'll never quit pushing to growl."
—Ex.

"SOAKED" PEAS AND BEANS

Reports received by officials in charge of the enforcement of the Food and Drugs Act reveal that owing to the great demand and consequent high prices for canned peas and beans, many canners are putting on the market products made by soaking dried peas and beans and then canning them. The process of soaking gives the peas and beans much the same appearance as the fresh article. Products made in this way may be wholesome, but, it is pointed out, they are generally less desirable than those prepared from fresh peas and beans. Furthermore, if the consumer desires the dried product it is much cheaper to buy the dried peas and beans directly from the grocer and soak them at home. In this way the same article is served at a much less cost.

The Food and Drugs Act does not prohibit the sale in interstate or foreign commerce of canned soaked peas and beans, provided the label on the cans indicates plainly and conspicuously that the contents are made from the sacked, dried product. Consumers can learn by carefully reading labels whether they are getting a product that was made from the dried or from the fresh peas and beans.

THINK BEYOND YOUR JOB

The trouble with the average millionaire when he sets out to give advice to the rising generation is that he is so apt to indulge in platitudes, or truisms which none may contradict, but which no one can be guided by, and because they are of so vague a character no one can do anything in consequence of their enunciation. A notable exception is Charles M. Schwab, who has recently put the pith of his long experience in the making of money into a small breast-pocket volume. It opens with a brief talk on "Thinking Beyond Your Job," and the more it is studied the clearer will it become that the first of the stepping stones to success is summed up in that chapter heading.

Says Schwab: "For thirty-six years I have been moving among workingmen in what is now the biggest branch of American industry, the steel business. In that time it has been my good fortune to watch most of the present leaders rise from the ranks, ascend step by step to places of power. These men, I am convinced, are not natural prodigies. They won out by using normal brains to think beyond the manifest daily duty."

Observe the accent on "normal brain" and the omission of any reference to special opportunity, or to what is often called "pull."

He adds: "There is not a man in power to-day who did not begin at the bottom and work his way up, round by round simply by using his head and his hands a little more freely and a little more effectively than the men beside him. Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem, worked in the yard when I first knew him. Mr. Snyder was a stenographer, Mr. Mathews a draftsman. The fifteen men in direct charge of the plants were selected not because of some startling stroke of genius, but because day in and day out they were doing little unusual things—thinking beyond their jobs."—San Francisco Chonicle.

STORY OF TWO BOYS

Two boys left home with just money enough to take them through college. They both did well at college, took their diplomas in due time and got from members of the faculty letters to a large shipbuilding firm with which they desired employment. When the first boy was given an audience with the head of the firm he presented his letters.

"What can you do?" asked the president.

"I should like some sort of a clerkship."

"Well, sir, I will take your name and address, and if we have anything of the kind I will write to you."

The other boy then presented himself and his papers.

"What can you do?" the president asked him.

"Anything that a green hand can do, sir," was the reply.

The president touched a bell that called a foreman, and the college graduate went to sorting scrap iron. A week passed, and the president, meeting the superintendent, asked, "How is the new man getting on?"

"Oh," said the superintendent, "he did his work so well that I put him over the gang."

In two years that young man was the head of a department and on the way to a salary larger probably than his friend will ever earn.—Youths' Companion.

TAKE TIME TO READ

You feel a lack somewhere. You know that things are not exactly as they ought to be. You feel that you are not master of yourself—that something is driving you to chase hither and yon, for what purpose you cannot tell. That something is your hungry mind. It longs to be fed with intellectual nourishment just as your body longs to be fed with physical nourishment. And, just as cooks feed your body, authors can feed your mind. Get acquainted with books, good books. Take time to read the great poets, novelists, philosophers. They will give your mind the food it craves. Even from the standpoint of business success, it will pay you to acquire the reading habit.—H. Addington Bruce.

BURBANK SECURES MORELAND FACTORY

Burbank has secured the Moreland Auto Truck Factory, coveted by a number of municipalities, provided the citizens of that city raise the necessary $25,000 for the purchase of a site. A general mass meeting will be called in Burbank soon to organize for a subscription campaign. The Burbank Review in Friday's issue says:

The Moreland Auto Truck Company's huge new manufacturing plant is to be located on the Henry E. Luttge 25-acre tract, facing San Fernando Boulevard, just northwest of Alameda. Papers are escrowed, and bond is up to insure performance on the part of the Moreland Company. The Company agrees to do the following things:

First—To expend not less than $200,000 the first two years, in erection of buildings, and to build a unit costing $100,000 and employ not less than 150 men in the first year.

Second—To keep on building on this tract so long as they wish further units, until tract is fully covered, all the buildings to be of steel and cement construction.

Third—To start work as soon as title passes.

Burbank must raise the necessary funds to purchase the Luttge tract, the cost price of which is $25,000. To the cost of the tract there may possibly be added a further expense of paying for cost of crop and preparing land for crop, should there be delay in raising funds. This is an undertaking by our citizens for our citizens.

A committee composed of Tom Story, C. B. Fischer, Dr. E. H. Thompson, M. Spazier, J. D. Radcliff, R. O. Church, J. T. Shelton and A. E. Dufur have been at work for weeks to secure this manufacturing establishment for this section. Large contracts are now in the hands of the Moreland people and they are anxious to start work at once. That there may be no slip as to its part of it, the Moreland Company has furnished bond, in the sum of $30,000, that it will come through with its agreements.

Sixteen cities in Southern California have been after this plant, offering every inducement to secure it,one offer being forty acres and $40,000, with several hundred building lots besides. The officers of the company have been literally besieged by these several communities, but has made its choice, and Burbank gets it. The choice was based on the cheap gas rate here, coupled with the fact that crude oil from the Kern River Oil Fields is piped directly by this property, further advantages being good rail and highway connections with Los Angeles and the outside world.

OPPORTUNITY IN PRISON

Would O. Henry have found his vocation while in prison if, instead of being given a comparatively light occupation and humane treatment he had been subjected to the brutal and crushing discipline many prisoners undergo? Would his genius have flowered under such a regimen as is described in that classic of prison fiction, "9009," or in innumerable reports by trustworthy investigators? We think not.

It is quite probable that Cervantes planned and even wrote the first part of Don Quixote while in prison. Mirabeau spent a very considerable portion of his life in durance. Dostoyevsky outlined a horrible imprisonment to produce some of the greatest novels ever written. In other instances very superior gifts have survived imprisonment. But very superior gifts are exceptional.

Why should not a prison be always a gate of opportunity to all its inmates? When civilized society takes bodily possession of a man—actually seizes his life and takes the direction of it wholly out of his hands, because he has been directing it badly—why should it not always systematically and intelligently try to find out what he is really good for and get him at it?

Society cannot be said to make such an attempt. Mostly it subjects him to a rigidly prescribed, uniform, representative regime, that is as far from discovering and encouraging any budlet of talent—whether to write a book or drive a dray—as a regime could well be—Saturday Evening Post.

HITTING BACK

Uncle Silas (visiting city relatives who use electrical appliances for cooking at the table)—"Well, I swan! you make fun of us for eatin' in the kitchen. I don't see as it makes much difference whether you eat in the kitchen or cook in the dinin' room."—Life.

THE DIFFERENCE

"Blessed are the meek," quoted the deacon, in reproving the backslider, "for they shall inherit the earth."

"They may inherit it all right, deacon," said the irreverent one, "but somehow or other they never seem to get possession."—British Weekly.

DIFFERENT

"No. The people she buys things from do that."—Boston Transcript.

TROPICO TRUSTEES

REGULAR MONTHLY REPORT READ AND APPROVED

The trustees of the city of Tropico met in the City Hall at 7:30 p. m. with Trustees Peters, Henry, Alspach, Seal and Veselich present, also City Attorney Shaw, City Clerk Coleman, City Health Officer Mabry and City Marshal Gould present.

A communication was received from E. Shillings asking for 30 days extension of time in which to complete his contract on Hill street.

Douglass Bruce of Sycamore Canyon road made application to sell milk in the city of Tropico. Referred to the milk inspector.

The city attorney reported that the district court of appeals had rendered a decision in the jitney bus case that was appealed from the lower courts. The decision states that the city of Tropico has no legal right to interfere with the jitney bus traffic through the city so long as they do no take on passengers within the city limits.

The ordinance changing the name of Moore avenue to Palmer avenue was read and passed on second reading and on motion of Trustee Henry the ordinance was declared adopted.

Considerable dissatisfaction exists among the board and also a great many citizens of Tropico in regard to the wording of the building ordinances, as it permits the building of cheap buildings without any supervision, and the board ordered the city attorney to draw up an amendment to Sec. 19 of Ordinance 44 os as to place the board in control of all such buildings.

The city marshal was instructed to have Johnson Bros. remove the wooden awning on Tropico avenue and comply with the law in maintaining their fruit stand at that place.

A petition, signed by thirty taxpayers, asking the board to repeal the recently passed dog kennel ordiance, but as the board had given them plenty of time and opportunity to file their objections before the ordinance was passed, they decided that the waste paper basket was the proper place for such petitions.

Through the president of the board the Yeomen ask for the loan of a fire extinguisher to have in their hall during carnival week. The request was granted.

The chairman of the board was ordered to purchase a new rope for the city hall flag. The chairman was also authorized to employ some one to clear the public playgrounds of weeds and rubbish at a cost not to exceed $10.00.

Mr. Gonnier of the Federal Electric Co. was present and addressed the board in regard to selling the city a fire siren. The board decided to go with the agent to Burbank and examine the siren at that place.

ADDED OFFENSE

Country Justice—"Ten and costs for reckless driving."

Young Motorist—"Listen, Judge; we were on our way to your office to have you marry us."

Justice—"Twenty and costs, then. You're a darned sight more reckless than I thought you were."—Judge.

TURN ABOUT

He was about to propose, but before doing so he wished to make sure she was a competent girl. So he asked:

"Can you wash dishes?"

"Yes," she said sweetly. "Can you wipe them?"

He didn't propose.—Record.

If a merchant wishes to unlock the door to success in business he should use the key of newspaper advertising.

ITS VALUE TO HIM

"Has your college education been of any practical value to you?"

"You bet it has! If it wasn't for my experience in track athletics I'd have to leave my house five minutes earlier every morning in order to catch the 7:58," replied the commuter.—Michigan Awgwan.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Old Gent—What's your name, my little man? The Little Man—They call me "Corns" at school, sir. Old Gent—Good gracious! And why? The Little Man (cheerfully)—'Cause I'm always at the foot of the class, sir.—London Telegraph.

NO HELP NEEDED

Johnny (a small brother)—Mother, quick. Send for the doctor! Mother (anxiously)—Why—why—what's the matter? Who is ill? Johnny—Mr. Algernon is going to die—he said he would if sister would not marry him, and sister says she won't.—London Telegraph.

ENCOURAGES FINE BUILDINGS

Our city planners might well imitate the example of Buenos Aires, which every year exempts from taxation the most beautiful building within the preceding twelvemonth and awards a medal to the architect.—Youth's Companion.

SUCCESS AT LAST

"Hurrah! Hurrah! Five dollars for my latest story, 'A Modern Husband.'"

"Congratulations, young man. From whom did you get the money?"

"From the express company. They lost it!"

When a man loses faith in himself he sets an example which others quickly follow. Never engage in any business with a feeling of doubt in your mind or a conviction of failure in your heart.
